Please leave words of wisdom of seventh grade life for next year's students. For example, what can you tell them about academic life? Social adjustments? Clubs? What are the highs and the lows of seventh grade and how best to survive the stress and drama that will surely come their way? What did you love best about this year, and what did you find most difficult?

Dear Sevie,

I am writing this to tell you that 7th grade has it's ups and downs like most things. Ups would be that you can meet a lot of new and cool people. But as you expect there can be a lot of not cool people. My best advise to you is to not let stupid people/drama affect your school work. Another thing, remember, just because you don't like a class/teacher doesn't mean you shouldn't care or not do any work in that class. To be honest, History isn't my favorite subject but that doesn't give me an excuse to not try my best. Just at least take this wisdom from one victim - I mean 7th grade to another: try your best and you will pass even if you are not

Hello, don't worry 7th grade is not as bad as you may think it is. 7th grade was my favorite year to be in school. The team teachers help you with basically anything. They try really hard to make the school year fun and productive. I learned a lot this year. I also made a lot of new friends. I would say the only really bad thing was waking up early, oh boy that was terrible. Once you get used to switching classes and having a locker it's honestly very easy. I suggest doing clubs and sports and or Band/chorus. Don't stress the year flies by.

Middle school isn't as hard as people would think it is. As a student who is average academically I never studied for tests or really did my homework but I usually had 80's 90's and 70's. I met alot of new friends met some old ones and lost some. Oh and I really wouldn't date anyone in 7th grade its a waste of time. Just make good friends and be a decent student academically you should be fine in middle school. Oh and strive to be the best you, you can be.

Academics are a big part of your seventh grade life, if you don't go to school or don't do your work your grades are going to suffer. School clubs are a great way to boost up your fun times at NTMS. There are at least 7 clubs here and all of them are a great way to learn about animals, books, foreign countries, and other important topics. Some highs about NTMS is that you get to go to Parien Lake at the end of the year, you have fun days, and you have food parties in your foreign language. Some lows are that you have exams at the end of the year, you have midterms, and the homework. Stress and drama are things that are going to pop up in NTMS but here are some ways to cope → with it. You can talk to your School Counsellor or your teachers and parents. Also, you could talk to a friend you can trust. What I liked about this school year is that your teachers and friends will always stick by your side and will talk to you if you have any problems. The most difficult thing about Middle School is waking up so early and also the final exams! If you are going to NTMS have fun and enjoy the ride in middle school!

When it comes to academics the best piece of advice I could possibly give you is to just do your work it makes it a lot less stressful and lowers your chances of Summer School. If you're one of those people who like to go above and beyond at school I would recommend you join some sort of club there are a lot of clubs so you'll probably find one you'll like most if not all are really fun. The best thing you can do with drama is don't think about it and if you get into it ignore it because it's not worth your time or for you to stress over it anyway by the end of the year it won't really matter. Hello incoming 7th graders!
I want to tell you about the Clubs we have at NTMS. There are so many clubs like Foreign language, Jazz band, etc. But some clubs help the school like student council. They plan activities and the dances at NTMS ^{and} collect money.
And recycling club collects recycling from around the school. Also if you see a girl with kinda short brown hair in recycling club, that's me. I hope you enjoy NTMS.

Hello! My Name is Mitchell, this year I am in 8th grade. So you may see me in the Halls, that's a little bit about me but lets get to you. First of all, Welcome to North Toward Middle School! Being in a brand new School can be scary. So I'm going to show you some do's and don'ts in Middle School. First things First don't be afraid to ask for help our guidance counselors are all way happy to help. Next Grades, grades are extremely important this year because you can fail and go to summer school. So make sure to study and do your homework always.

And you should be just fine. Next thing Stress and Drama this will be a very big thing this that's why you need to find your right group of friend and try your hardest to be kind. Always try to fix things on your own but if it becomes too much to handle tell a trusted adult. Also stay out of areas that a fight might break out. Always try to remove your self from this problem. Although School may be tough try to find something to get your mind off it and don't start vaping or use other Drugs or any substance that can be harm to the Body. Next Clubs! clubs and Sports are a great thing to get in to we have clubs like Newspaper club student council, Yearbook club etc.
Sports are fun to but you have to keep a certain grade and not fail your grades to be in Sports. Sports like swim, foot ball, basket ball, etc.
Track are just some of the Sports we have to offer.
When you get more into the year your probably going to want to hang outside of school so some options are the Rainbow Roller Rink, page 716, Say chess books and the Rec center those are some affordable places to. Not FOOTBALL games!! Foot ball games are another great way to have fun with your friend some great things about middle school are the Davis lake trip and Band performance.

The thing I found most difficult is keeping up on my grades this year. A couple other things: Always keep your locker clean. Also you should be on time to class you get 10 minutes for passing time, 3 late's and a detention. I Hop that your first year of middle school goes well. My advice to you in middle school is to try new things. Join a sport or join a club, it's fun I swear. Another bit of advice I have for you is make some friends, some classes won't be fun if you don't know anyone.

My last bit of advice is to study hard and practice. You'll never gain anything if you put no effort towards it, but most importantly, have fun. 7th grade is full of many twists and turns, so make sure you find the light in each one.

Hello! Welcome to NTMS new seventh grade students!
Now, in seventh grade, you need to work hard. Seventh grade is not so easy. You have a lot of quizzes and tests. You need to focus on your academics. I am not saying to not hang out with your friends, I am saying when you have tests and quizzes the next day, focus and study for them. You are going to meet new friends in middle school. The way to have new friends is to stay nice to everyone. Trust me, it's much easier to stay nice and kind than being rude to everyone. Also, listen to your teachers, they know what they are doing. You will get far with the advice because it has helped me! Good Luck!

Dear Next year's 7th graders,

7th grade isn't hard academically, as long as you pay attention and do your homework. If you do your work and stay out of drama, this year will go by in a flash. Now foreign language especially will be hard and overwhelming at the beginning, but power through that rough beginning and the rest of the year will be a lot easier.

The thing that was different for me was the amount of homework we got. In elementary school we got a sheet of home work a night. In middle school you get that times 5. Also, I suggest for friends that you should branch out a little bit. I mean, keep the old friend ships but also strengthen the new ones. It was fun to play a modified sport this year and it was good exercise. I played soccer and hockey. All of the teachers are nice but you will get a ton of homework so be prepared for that and you'll be all set!

Incoming seventh graders you may think middle school is going to be hard, but really its the opposite. Seventh grade can be the best year if you do things right. Academically I suggest handing in all your work on time and if you are absent then make up your work. Make sure your grades are good and if they aren't then go and ask the teacher for help. Making new friends is a great thing. You can join clubs or sports teams and find people with similar interests. To survive stress make sure you don't do a big project the night before and remember to breathe. To survive drama just try to stay away from it as much as possible. Please don't get in fights it doesn't solve anything. You will either love or hate this year. So I wish you all the best of luck.

Hello new 7th graders I know that it is stressfull adjusting to the new setting but it grows on you quicks. The time you spend here is incredible you will make new friends and learn so many things you didn't know before. The peak of 7th grade comes when you really understand the beauty of 7th grade. When you grasp the feeling of accomplishment and cherish that. The lows are when you give up or stop trying, it will only make you feel worse. Also, you may think that teachers are putting alot of stress on you or are being rude but that's not true at all. They are looking after you and watching you grow into young men and women. So, dont give them a hard time its their job. Some tips to help are to always stay organized, polite, honest, sincere, hard working, and most of all kind.

No matter how much people portray middle school as just as simple as it could be or couldn't but it's up to you to make the decision. Some easy ways you could make middle school a great time is do what your told, participate in class activities, STAY OUT OF DRAMA, and try your best every day. If your always trying your best the teachers and nats will always except you for you and never look down on you for having bad grades just try and don't give them a reason to see the bad side that is in you.

In seventh grade, you may get some homework but it really isn't that bad. Seventh grade is really easy if you just do your homework, study for tests, be nice to your teachers, and have a good group of friends. Even if you try to avoid it, there will still always be drama but don't worry because you can get through it. If you aren't too busy with other things at home, then I definitely suggest doing some sports and clubs. They are super fun and you get to do all different kinds of fun activities and learn about all new things that you may have not known before. Also, when you join a club or sport, you get to meet all different new friends. That is one very good thing about coming to the middle school. Just don't be scared, you'll have lots of fun!

Seventh graders coming into this school need to look out for some things. 1: Some teachers you can joke around with some take jokes very seriously. Don't be rude to teachers either They are just trying to help you get a good education. 2: Don't start trouble with your other classmates don't start fights you can get in alot of trouble. Stay organized and study for tests. The field trip is fun so work hard to get to it. To not get as much pressure, find a way to relieve it at home, like playing sports or hanging out with your friends. I think the most difficult part of 7th grade was the academic work but if you find a good friend group, it will be over before you know it.

Hello new 7th graders, I got some news to tell you about middle school. Middle school isn't the same as 6th grade. Everything is different, even the people you have to do your work or else your grade is gonna be a lot lower than it should be. Yes it might take a few weeks to get used to but you'll catch on pretty quick. Listen to your teacher's as well because if you disrupt their class it's either to the hallway or ISS. If you do your work and stay out of trouble, then you won't have a problem. The teachers won't bother you if you don't bother them. Enjoy 7th grade!

7th grade was by far my best year. It is so fun and such an adventure. But you need to be more responsible. If you want to get good grades you need to do your homework and study. There some bad things about Middle School though but its the same things you had to do in your other school. Homework, tests, and girl drama. my thoughts are study work hard listen to your teachers and have fun to keep stress away try to keep everything in order. put school work first get all of your work done. Its ok to talk to people when you are upset.
you have a little amount of work sometimes the work is hard.

Hello seventh graders! Welcome to NT middle school! 7th grade will be an amazing year. If you try hard, you'll be very successful and get good grades. There will be many fun things like dances, sports, clubs, and more. There will also be some challenging things like exams, tests, and homework. Sometimes it'll be a little overwhelming, but you just have to learn not to stress too much about the little things. There might be a lot of drama, so it's good to try to stay out of it. Have an amazing year!

Dear seventh graders,

In Middle School you have to take 13 periods in between the periods you have 4 minutes to get to your locker then to your class. If you leave your last class late you can get a pass for being late. During enrichment you can go to another's teachers room for late assignments, late test, or projects. The most difficult class this year for me was science. In middle school you can also join a lot of clubs and sports like football, yearbook club and homework club. To be prepared for classes you need to charge your iPad every day, have a pencil, and a calculator for math. For holidays you will have parties. You should keep your locker clean so if you lose a paper you can find it easily. For classes there is barely any homework but you should always finish your homework because incomplete homework can bring down your grade.

Going into 7th grade I was really nervous. I didn't know what to expect from middle school. It's definitely different from elementary school. You should try at least one club or sport. It could end up being a lot of fun. When it comes to your schoolwork always stay in touch with your teachers. They can help you if you're having trouble understanding something. If your teachers tell you to study something study it. Life is a lot easier when you're practically given an answer key to a test or quiz. Try to stay organized too.

First, I'd suggest doing your homework. Spanish or French is a very fun class. You play games and that help rise your skill. But only if your homework is done! If you have the chance ask for packets of the other language. You can then learn both. Mrs. Czara loves playing Kahoot & Quizlet Live for prizes! This is an easy class, all you have to do is play games and do homework! This may also be your favorite class easily. Work hard and you can be amazing at just talking. Playing around the world was always my favorite. Good luck with next year reading, and do your homework.

Hello, I am an 8th grader... hopefully... I will be telling you stuff you should know about 7th grade. There is a lot of work, but not as much as you probably thought. The friends you have coming into middle school, you probably won't have coming out. I suggest joining some clubs like year book, recycling, and critter club. Some highs of middle school are, you make new friends and you learn life lessons. Some lows of middle school are, you lose some friends and it's hard to trust people. If you thought you wouldn't have drama and stress, you'd be wrong. Middle school is drama, relationships, friendship, family, it is all drama. If someone is starting with you, walk away or block them, don't start more by saying stuff back. The stress is hard too, if you are feeling really stressed, take a break, whether it's 10 minutes or 5 it will help, trust me. The teachers aren't as scary as they seem. The teachers I had made my year amazing.

Dear, New Seventh grader.

So you made it to Seventh grade, good job! So you get alot more classes than 6th grade and you don't have an assigned room.

Also a New thing is clubs, theres many different clubs like criller club or facts club etc. There's also

Some high and lows to seventh grade like you get to make new friend but there is alot more homework to do.

What I loved were the teachers they were nice and reasonable, what I didn't like was the work.

Just letting you new boys know that it will be tough you will have some struggles, But you will make it all it takes is self-confidence, Oh and just make sure to be really organized, If not you'll pretty much be putting yourself in a war with no training, There will be drama and if it involves you try to get out of it because you will regret getting into it, So good luck and try to stay organized it will hurt you in the end.

Next year in middle school it is really important to keep your grades up so you don't have to go to summer school. Social adjustments won't be too hard since you already know all/most of the other students. If I were you I would get involved with as many clubs and sports as you can so you have something to look forward to after school is over. My favorite thing about 7th grade was soccer. I had so much fun. Try not to get involved in too much drama because it will mess up your life. Don't get too stressed just enjoy the school year and try not to worry too much. The worst thing about the school year was getting up each morning and getting to school.

Kids work hard, study and focus. Don't try skipping homework for 2 and a half marking periods. At lunch find a table and sit at it. Maybe join foreign language club or Critter club. The highs are friends and the lows are work. Bring something small that will help you with stress and ignore drama. I loved that when you went to the library you could play games like cool math games or Minecraft unblocked. The most difficult thing was lying to my parents and getting grounded for like 6 months.

It's not much of a change. Though now instead of being the oldest at the school you're the youngest again. Don't stick your nose where it doesn't belong and you should be fine. Just leave people alone, don't start something because you're bored, just chill with your friends and you'll have a blast.

Some words of advise to people coming into Seventh grade is to do your homework when you are saposel to not a day after it was do. Because you don't want to be playing catchup the school year. You can't make up all your points in the last marking period.
Don't skip school or classes you only hurt your self and grades by doing that. Study, don't be unprepared, and most importantly enjoy middle school. Don't act like you own the place and, Abosolutely talk to your teachers and coonslers about questions and problems. And if one of your friends is not acting like your friends mind your own busnes and leave them alone.

Dear Seniors,

Welcome to middle school! Yes, it will be confusing and yes, its going to be hard to adjust to this new building but once you know where to go, your good. No matter what happens, there will be drama, just keep your little head out of it and you'll be all good! There are tons of clubs and I'm sure you'll find one you like, personally I love going to Critter Club and the Gay Straight alliance. (GSA). Studying will be difficult and exams are tough but you'll get through it, I believe in you!

7th grade was a piece of cake, figuratively speaking. It was fun, you get to go to Darien Lake at the end of the year so it makes it all worth while. Just some pointers, try to stay organized and try not to get trampled in the hall. After the first few days, you should be fine. The first week or so your teachers will be lenient and be fine with it if your a minute late. There's so many clubs and sports you can do. Oh, and you get FACS this year! Yay! So you can cook recipes, and if it looks edible you can eat it. And if your in band, it makes your day so much better, because you've gotten the best band teacher. You also get to do technology! You get to make wood projects, start coding. You also get to do stuff with robots hint hint. So don't worry about the drama, you'll get used to it.

Dear 7th graders

School in 7th is hard but easy for the most part you just have to keep track of your grades and do your homework and try your best. Its best if you stay away from the drama because it will make your 7th grade life alot easier, join a club be a part of your school community and I know sports arent every ones thing but thats why they have clubs. and stay away from social media drama to and this year you will find out who your true friends are have fun and good luck

If you end up on team aries or team orion you will really great teachers and you will meet lots of new friends. The academic life could be sometimes difficult and sometimes easy. The social adjustments that you will have to make are with teachers and with friends. Some of the clubs that you can join are foreign language club, yearbook club, and critter club but don't worry theres a lot more that you can choose from. How to best avoid drama is by not getting involved in other peoples business. The thing that I loved about seventh grade was all the fun activities we got to do. The thing that I found difficult about this year was homework. To get good grades you must hand in all homework and study for all your tests.

Now if you have a best friend that's on your team then all im saying is I lost mine in seventh grade and I don't regret it because I actually made way more friends and it wasn't hard at all. But also don't tell everyone your secrets because thats how I lost my friends so don't be that person. Also don't try to be cool and date people because it's just a waste of your time and really it's just not cool. Heres your last tip try to talk to everyone on the first day so you know some of them.

Always be sure to stay organized and make sure that once you get a paper, put it where it belongs (and not in some giant stack of other papers). Check Schoology every night for your homework, but also listen to Teachers during class, because they won't always remember to put everything on Schoology. Also, don't be shy to try out a club even if it just peaks your interest a little bit, because you don't have to go back if you didn't like it.

Dear future Seventh Graders,

Seventh grade is a huge adjustment from 6th grade. Homework is assigned nightly. However you can join clubs, a few examples are FACS club Foreign Language, Critter Club etc. Transitioning in you may lose friends, but you will definitely make more. If you think something is wrong show your voice. Stand up for your friends. Good grades are easily achievable as long as you study. Be strong and you'll make it through.

Please leave words of wisdom of seventh grade life for next year's students. For example, what can you tell them about academic life? Social adjustments? Clubs? What are the highs and the lows of seventh grade and how best to survive the stress and drama that will surely come their way? What did you love best about this year, and what did you find most difficult?

The Academic life is harder than a moderate learning life. Your social life might change depending on if you do clubs or activities in and out of school. The highs of seventh grade are the classes and teachers you get. The lows of seventh grade is being the youngest ones in the building and the bullying. Don't stand for bullying and just do what you normally do. The thing that I loved best was getting new friends. The most difficult thing was being myself and not caring what others thought.

7 grade can be tricky but once you get to know the school better and the classes and new students, it gets easier. You should find good friends that can help out each-other and always be there. But if drama starts don't get involved if it isn't about you cause then you wish you never started it. Classes can be hard, but there's one key to great success and that is that you have to listen, do your homework, and study for quizzes, tests and exams. If you have stress and stuff you wanna talk about, we have nice counselors that you can open up to anytime you have something to talk about with someone. I love that I meet many new friends and enjoyed a big year with them. Homework was a lot harder for me, cause there was so much, just make sure you

This year went by so fast! 7th grade has been an amazing year. I got to learn how to speak French and all of the cuter that comes with it! Some words of wisdom I can tell up coming 7th graders is to not stress about the small stuff. All the teachers are so understanding and willing to help at all costs. Another thing I can say is if you pay attention in class 7th grade will be so easy and pass right by. In your study halls/Enrichments teachers are willing to help! Good luck all new 7th graders! I promise you'll do great!

Seventh grade will definitely be hard and stressful at times, but it is all part of growing up. But, despite the drama between friendships, you always have the opportunity to make new friends. You will meet so many people along the way, such as amazing teachers, and students. I think the best part of seventh grade is the fun days that the teachers are generous enough to give us. Also, of course, Darien Lake! That was by far one of my favorite field trips. Finally, the exams are not as hard as you may think. If you do good in class and study hard, they will be pretty easy.

In 7th grade, you might get more homework than last year, but it won't be overwhelming. If you turn in your homework and study for your tests, you'll be on the right track to passing 7th grade. I loved all the fun activities we did, and I found that projects were difficult.

Welcome to the seventh grade! This year will become a turning point in your life, here you will meet new friends and new subjects such as Spanish/French, health, and FAC. The seventh grade is split into two teams so you may not see some of your old friends in class but you will meet new friends who are going through the same struggle of getting through this year in one piece, just like you. Lots of drama and lies are spread through the halls which can be annoying and mean but the best way to survive this free for all of a year is to keep your personality the same be your self. It may sound like a cat poster but its true. one last thing good luck your gonna need it.

Dear Future 7th Graders. Say goodbye to sitting in one class room all day and walking through the halls with your teachers in lines. Your in Middle School now... Which means responsibility's. Yes the teachers are extremely nice but there is a bit more Homework in middle school then there is in Elementary. and trust me the work isn't always easy. But I promise as long as you keep up to date with your home work and your in school work you'll be Fine. But there is another way to do good in 7th grade. Simply respect your teachers If you respect them they'll respect you. (And some times they may help you a little with your grades. Just follow this Advice, and you'll be Fine. Good Luck 7th grade!

Seventh grade is super fun. There are many fun things you can do like go to critter club, or Spanish language club. You should always hand in your homework because it will boost your average. In seventh grade you don't get a lot of homework and if you do it's pretty easy. Always be ready for every test. You will take Midterms and Final exams. Those tests won't be hard if you study for them. I think you would really enjoy seventh grade.

WELCOME to 7th grade! If you're ON ORION, and you get the science teacher as your homeroom, you're lucky. Because the science teacher has animals if you're an animal lover. Also the teachers are nice for the first 2 marking periods the last 2 marking periods they go a little harder on you. Hello future 7th graders, I'm warning you about the teachers, their crazy, But again great teachers, they will help you throughout the year and push you to do your best. One thing you might want to know about clubs are that you don't have to join them if you don't want to. Another thing is, is that you will get used to the building over time, It's not as big as you think. I recommend always studying for tests, quizzes, and exams because some are challenging. Be ready for drama try to avoid it as much as possible because some things can lead to major trouble. What I loved about this year was definitely my teachers, and Spanish, I found spanish fun. One thing I found most difficult was before I was always stressed about the time and if I was late, But other than that have a good 7th grade.

Dear incoming 7th graders,

Don't focus on how many friends you have or what you wear. Focus on your schoolwork that's what will get you through the year. Also, don't be afraid to ask for help, academically or in general. If someone or something is bothering you, speak with a trusted adult. Turn in all your work and study. Break study sessions into 15 mins. for each class per night. Getting caught up in drama or your friends drama, focus on yourself and your grades.

Hi, I tell you my first year of middle school was quite nerve-racking. I also felt very nervous and I'm sure you do too. But, don't worry it isn't that bad! You have much more freedom, you don't have to walk in a line with a teacher following you every where you go. (You can talk in the hallways!) The one thing I didn't like about Seventh grade was waking up 6:00 in the morning, but I have to do it again next year... lol

I loved the freedom, clubs,

Dear new students

Hi I am Gwen. 7th grade is so amazing. You meet all new friends, meet the most amazing teachers ever, and have so much fun discovering new things. Your academic classes are great. In math you do packets Kahoot and quizzes! In chorus and band you sing or play an instrument. Of course you learn new music and have awesome lesson groups. Social studies is an adventure with movies and acting, music and mysteries. English is funny and makes you laugh. Your teacher does everything you do to. Lunch is still lunch though. Science you do projects and experiments. Also, a notebook check every marking period. Foreign language is so amazing.

Can this note be included in the school newspaper? yes.

You have a great teacher also. You try new foods, play games, do projects, and even make videos. Also make sure to get your participation tickets! Tech and gym you do so many sports and build cars, program robots, and build saws. Remember to make sure to be constructive and do your work every day. And each exploratory class is a different adventure. The only downside is you can be separated from friends, but don't worry friends will be easy to find. I hope you join at least one of the clubs, because they open your horizons. Also, I hope Middle School is just as great for you as it was for me! >w>

Welcome to Seventh grade! Seventh grade will always be tough because it's new and it's like a new level of responsibility, but you're strong and the teachers and other 8th graders will always be here to help. The teachers will be able to help you whenever you're confused, but they aren't mind readers so make sure to say something. Middle school is where you will meet new people and find out the truth of how others are, But everyone fits in. There are also clubs like critters ~~club~~ if you're an animal person or if you like books there's the Battle of the Books. Middle school is where people show their true colors, and it's sad to say this but some people distance and change but there's always new people. If you feel stressed you could go talk to Mrs. Evans or Mrs. Lyles. I believe in you all! Have a great seventh grade!

7th grade work is very consistent but in my eyes very easy. Like for example you will get homework but when you try it the concept is very easy. And tests are usually fairly easy and if you do good on the test your average will go up and you won't have to worry about failing. And the teachers will do everything they can to get your averages up if they drop there will usually be 60 point items as simple as "keep your binder organized" This can really help your grade or hurt it. That is my opinion on 7th grade.

Seventh grade is different than elementary school because there is more classes and more tests. One way to make 7th grade easier for you is always come about your grades and pay attention because when exams come they are going to be all about the stuff you did for the year. The best about this year was the field trips we went on because everyone was looking forward to them. The most difficult thing for me was Math.

If you do your homework and study for tests you will have no problem in the academic field! I know some people are quiet but join a club it gets you more involved and they're fun. There will be drama and it's annoying but, all you can do is to stay away and don't let people bother you because it doesn't matter! Make friends, have fun, do your work! The year will go by in a second so don't waste that second on drama. Trust me I know you don't want to wake up at 6:00 in the morning. At least when you're done with the day you can nap! Another thing that will make the year easier is not going to bed at 1:00 A.M. I learned the hard way! Have fun in 7th Grade I for sure did!

Hey guys. So 7th grade isn't as bad as they make it look on movies. It's actually really fun. When you come into 7 grade you might be a little shy. Well don't be because everyone is friends here. If you don't have a lot of friends this is when you can make them. We have lots of clubs such as: boys+girls club, sports, yearbook club, newspaper club, and so many more. You should set goals for yourself and give 100% effort everyday. Of course there will be drama but usually I just walk away from it. My favorite thing about 7 grade is the darrien lake field trip. I found math most difficult. But the year won't be so bad, except when the older kids call you seives.

Dear seventh graders,

Welcome to NTMS. Being in middle school was a little tough for me with learning new things, dealing with drama, and just adjusting. What you need to know is that you are not alone. Your school counselor is always there. No matter how embarrassing it is. Yes, you will deal with drama but never go to the answer of a fight. It hurts the school in many ways and you will get in big trouble. Make sure you know who your friends are and make the right choices. Always try your hardest, and ask for help if you need it. Clubs are always fun to join. You get to meet new people and learn new Coming into 7th grade is a very big change. You get more homework and you have more responsibilities. This is not like Elementary school where you can goof off or not study or not do your homework. There is a lot more pressure in Middle School. You also have sports teams and clubs. If you want to play a sport you need good grades. You will have a good successful year like I did hopefully.

7th grade can be tough- for a bunch of stupid, miserable reasons. You don't wanna make it worse in any different way then it already is, so I would suggest studying A LOT. Studying on team Orion was super easy. Seeing us 4/5 of my core class teachers used the app called quizlet. Quizlet is probably the main study resource that helped me this year, and it did me pretty well. But other than that, just have fun and don't let anyone get to you, and you should have a fun time!!

academic life for middle school is amazing! you get to learn about some cool things! Social adjustments will be kind of hard. making new friends is, too. I, personally have never been in a club before, but can tell there fun and a great way to make friends. some days are better than others, but you can go through them, and learn from the experience. The school year is going to seem challenging it may be at points but the teachers are great. I had fun learning and you should to, seventh grade isn't hard it's fun. The highest point of seventh grade is the teachers and all the fun and amazing things they do to help you succeed. The lowest point is the maybe 4000 pages of homework a night with, just even that bad. I loved all the activities we did this year it was the best. The most difficult thing is maybe some projects but they really turn out to be fun.

Seventh grade overall was an amazing year. When I first walked in I was terrified because I never met half of the kids I had seen but little did I know some of those kids became my best friends. So some great advice is never be afraid to talk to new people. Next is don't be worried of not finding your classes. I had stressed so much over this but on the second week of school I knew where all of my classes were. Lastly, try your best to keep your grades up! Do your homework, study for tests, and participate and you will be the best student you can be! This year has been great and I loved meeting new friends and getting closer with old ones!

Please leave words of wisdom of seventh grade life for next year's students. For example, what can you tell them about academic life? Social adjustments? Clubs? What are the highs and the lows of seventh grade and how best to survive the stress and drama that will surely come their way? What did you love best about this year, and what did you find most difficult?

It's best to just do your homework every night, but you should also spend time with friends, because it's a good stress realiver. ^{Also try to get sleep @ night} If the work tends to be difficult, theres no shame in talking to your teachers for help. Socially, don't try to cause problems with other students, its a waste of time just to get into trouble. Also, try to keep your locker clean and all you need is a locker shelf, mirror and something to hold your gym clothes. Anything else will get in your way.

7th grade is definitely better than elementary school though. The hardest thing for me was staying for finals, because I waited until last minute.

I suggest trying out for sports on a JV level, because modified doesn't really give you a chance to really perform. Also, if someone has a conflict with you try to resolve it with them and think whether or not a large enough problem to see guidance or if you can handle it yourself. Most important have fun and don't stress about homework and grades.

Hello, Incoming seventh graders welcome to North Tonawanda Middle School aka NTMS. When I first got here I was super scared and worried. But I slowly learned there's nothing to be really scared of if you pay attention and stay out of drama you'll love 7th grade. I loved 7th grade and I loved all my teachers. Have fun in Middle School see you in the halls and see you around. Oh and by the way join some clubs they make middle school more enjoyable.

Dear Future Victim.

Make sure to not chew gum in band.

Also pay attention and manage your time.

Obviously, do your homework.

The bad thing is, there is a significant amount of homework compared to 6th grade.

One thing you can look forward to is the IPads. They are a convenient way to access information in school.

School can be fun if you get your work done on time and you don't mess around when the teacher is trying to teach you something that you use in every day life. There are many clubs you can join in after school, for example critter club, recycling club, FACS club, foreign club and homework club.

One thing fun about middle school is you don't have teachers walking you everywhere. One bad thing is you have four minutes to go from class to class and you can't be late. Have fun during the school year and have many friends along the way and study for all your tests, and quizzes. Keep your grades up and do well, and be a good student.

Hello! Welcome to seventh grade! We are blessed to have another great kid in this school, just make sure you listen up! This won't be as hard as you think it is, just behave and do your work. If you are having trouble, do not be afraid of the teachers! They will be willing to help you and make sure you're on the right track. Do you love books, animals, recycling, or possibly trying new cultures? Then our school clubs will be perfect for you! And if you really want to get involved, we have student council and the yearbook committee! There may be so many things you want to try you happen to stress out, if that happens, it's ok. Just take a step back and calm down, I'm positive your teachers and club members will understand if you take a break from the clubs for a while. I loved all of my teachers and -on activities they had us do. ~~It was so much fun.~~ Just make sure you don't lag behind in school or home work! Remember, you still have eighth grade to try as much as you can! Can this note be included in the school newspaper? yes

Dear next 7th graders,

These are my words of wisdom... ish. Things will get hard. The homework, the tests, the mid-term and the final exam. Sometimes there is nothing you can do about it but, one thing you can do is keep moving forward and progressing. You will ^{can't spell} eventually get caught up in the stress and drama but, the best thing to do is to ^{still can't spell} ignore it.

The most important thing is to make sure you have friends. I know it sounds silly but, if you do get stuck in the stress and drama you are going to need someone else to →

Middle school is pretty fun if you hangout with the right people. It's better to have a couple friends than a lot of friends because then theres less drama. Also the first marking period is the fastest but try and get good grades year round. Do your homework! homework is probably the easiest way to keep your grades up. You also want to complete every assignment possible because it could be a huge part of your grade. Don't stress about middle school its pretty fun and easy. I guarantee you'll have a good time!

7th grade is a very nervous adjustment because of exams mid-terms and knowing you can fail. But, those are only 3 down points. True there is more homework and test but there is a lot of fun stuff. Like clubs, clubs are really fun it is a great place to have fun and make some new friends. Also the sports. I played soccer and softball on modified and I had so much fun. I met my best friend playing soccer. Also we can't forget enrichment. Enrichment is a class where you do homework or study. Finally let's not forget the freedom. You get your own locker and no lines just crowded hall ways. 7th grade was really fun!

Some words I have for the upcoming 7th graders is to always pay attention. Do not ever worry about the outside world or who's your friend or not or dating, just worry about your grades and your activities. I would try to play some sports or join a club. The best part about 7th grade for me was most definitely the Darien lake field trip, even though 7th grade can get super super stressful stay calm and organized. Good Luck!!

Dear Seve, Just do your homework, (yes, all of it.) join lots of clubs, and make a lot of friends. When you have a lot of friends, you always know someone will be there for you. Also, the most important thing is, now is NOT the time to make enemies. If you make enemies now, they will stick with you for the next 6 years. And, one last thing. As tempting as it may be, stay out of romantic relationships. They will just distract you from not only your schoolwork, but your friends as well. Just stick with those S-tips-to-survive and you should be good! See you in the halls.

To incoming 7th graders,
Do your homework! Even though some of it may seem pointless, still do it! It will help your average a lot. Spanish (or French) will seem very intimidating at first but it's pretty easy once you get

Seventh grade is a way to get us ready for high school. We have homework in almost every class and we have tons of fun projects and labs. We have recycling club, chess club, foreign language club and lots more clubs that all definitely make 7th grade more fun! Coming into a new school can be stressful and scary but overall the teachers are very understanding and nice. Many people have struggled to keep their grades up. Do your homework, study for tests and try hard on the projects you assigned. The most difficult task this year was making new friends. Socialize in between classes, make new friends. Stick with the people that are nice, funny and help you study!

Hey new recruits! Welcome to seventh grade! It's not as bad as you would think. So stop getting so stressed about big bad seventh grade and be more chill. It's actually really easy and I think you will enjoy it. And if your friends are on the other team, don't panic, because you're gonna meet lots of cool new people. HEADS UP! You're going to have A LOT of cool new teachers. And a lot of not-so-cool homework, I believe in you though! Also, one of the coolest things about seventh grade (and the grades coming) is the amount of freedom you have. Say goodbye to walking quietly in a straight line in the halls! And assigned lunch tables! Sadly though, there is no more going outside for recess... cries Just kidding, but all you little seivies are going to have a lot of fun, so stay safe, don't do drugs, and wear your seatbelt.

My plain advice is, it is easy to get side tracked by all the after school fun or special events. But just stay focused on the important goal. Keep your grades high. Don't let anything mess with your grades. Being smart and paying attention during those "boring" & "use-less" classes will really show off when you older. And I heard the you have to pay to go to summer school (80$ by the way). And I'm sure your adults at home don't wanna pay that. LOL. But I really do hope you & everyone else succeeds! Have fun!

First off the most important thing is that its not as hard as they say it is, I did much better than I thought I would. And ~~surely~~ always remember there is always someone to talk to about drama, like your Guardian or a teacher or the counselor of your team. And lastly don't give up, even if your not very "Intelligent" you could get a tutor or study more often. As long as you try as hard as you can you'll do much better than someone who doesn't even make an attempt to try.

NT Middle is by far one of my favorite schools and the Teachers are amazing. Some of the work is difficult but once you get it done and put all of your effort into it, the work gets easier along the way. The Social part of Middle school is just plain confusing. You lose some friends due to team switching but you meet more people. As for drama and stress? Find what makes you happy (friends, music, art, etc.) and focus on that, also, stay out of drama all it ever really does is hurt you. Drama is the most difficult thing to avoid, but the easiest thing to do is be yourself. Don't let others push you around, it doesn't help you to be fake, just stick to who you are.

What I would say is the hardest thing is managing your time and the drama. My locker was far away from my classes, so I didn't have enough time to go to my locker between every class. The easiest thing is that the day goes by pretty quickly. The teachers expect you to adjust within a week, so that's a little hard. Middle school is hard at first, but it does get better.

Hello Seventh graders I am an 8th grader now and I am here to help you out so lets start with DRAMA. All I have to say about drama is that you should try the best to stay out of it and last year I was the kid that die because barely anybody knew me and that's good but, it is not like I was alone I had friends and they are amazing. Okay so how that's done my social life change a lot from elementary school and for the better. In 6 grade I had a kidish group that was bad for middle school and now I got a group that was middle schoolers and they are the best. I wish you luck. Make sure to study, do your home work and join some clubs. during enrichment do your home work and don't be on your iPad during class. good luck and hope to see you this year.

Dear 7th graders,

The adjustment of getting used to all the moving around is hard at first but it gets easier. Also be open minded about your work in class try different ways to do things. a low thing about 7th grade is moving from class to class and getting there on time because you don't know where the moves are. A good thing about 7th grade is that, you get alot of freedom to do what you need to do? you get time in class to do it. The thing I loved most about this year is our teachers that sing & dance. Something that I found difficult was learning how to study. The best way to avoid stress and drama is to make a wide variety of friends and Do all of your homework and turn it in on time.

Don't let the people who don't get to know you define you. It will be hard at first. Just find a good group of people to spend time with. Don't worry, be your self. It will get harder but do your work. If you have trouble with work or a teacher, just ask for help. I loved making friends, Clubs are one of the best things to do. You meet others with the same interest as you. It is hard to adjust to so many halls and people but it will get easy. Just ask a 8th grader or a teacher for directions we will be help full. Well come to are School good luck.

Please leave words of wisdom of seventh grade life for next year's students. For example, what can you tell them about academic life? Social adjustments? Clubs? What are the highs and the lows of seventh grade and how best to survive the stress and drama that will surely come their way? What did you love best about this year, and what did you find most difficult?

IN seventh grade you will have to be sure to get to your classes ontime bring everything with you to class never cheat. Always be sure to study otherwise you will fail keep a clean locker.
There are a ton of kids in the grade. Two things you should worry about finals and midterms they are huge points that can be the difference between summer school or a free summer.

Dear 7th grader,

In 7th grade I had a lot of fun. Coming into 7th grade I was super scared. All of my teachers were super nice. I was scared it was going to be too hard for me but that wasn't the case at all. As long as you are a good student and want to be successful 7th grade shouldn't be hard for you at all. There are lots of clubs and sports you can be in but in order to play a sport you're grades have to be good. I played modified softball this year and it was so much fun. Don't be scared about 7th grade you will do great!

Next year in 7th grade you should know a few things. Having good grades is gonna help a lot because you don't want your enrichment to be filled with math and reading workshop. You could be in classes with all of your friends so don't fool around. The year will go by quick and the teachers are all nice.
